US JURY CONDEMNS DYLANN ROOF TO DEATH

IA jury condemned white supremacist Dylann Roof to death for the hate-fueled killings of nine black parishioners at a Bible study meeting in a Charleston, South Carolina, church in 2015. The same jury last month found Roof, 22, guilty of 33 federal charges, including hate crimes resulting in death, for the shootings at the Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church. Jurors deliberated for less than three hours. Roof stared straight ahead as the judge read through the jury's verdict findings before announcing his death sentence. Roof was unrepentant during his closing argument earlier in the day. He told jurors he felt the massacre was something he had to do and did not ask that his life be spared. REUTERS

CREDIT CARD OR CASH: SURCHARGE LAW DISPUTE

2The U.S. Supreme Court on Tuesday struggled over how to decide a challenge to a New York state law barring retailers from imposing surcharges on customers who make purchases with a credit card instead of cash. The eight justices seemed divided over whether the state's law is a form of speech regulation and, even if it is, whether it is an unlawful restriction.

Merchants have argued that New York's law and similar ones in other states violate retailers' rights to free speech and due process under the U.S. Constitution. The court heard a one-hour argument in an appeal filed by a group of merchants to a 2015 ruling by the New York-based 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that upheld the law. Nine other states have similar laws. REUTERS

FIFA AGREES TO EXPAND WORLD CUP TO 48 TEAMS

3Soccer's governing body, FIFA, voted to expand the World Cup to 48 teams from its current 32, brushing aside concerns that the expansion would lower the overall standard of the tournament and make it too big and unwieldy. FIFA president Gianni Infantino, fulfilling a promise he made during last year's election campaign, said the move meant that "more can participate and many more will have a chance to dream." "It's not the 20th century any more. It's the 21st century. Football is more than Europe and South America. Football is global," he told reporters. "The football fever you have in a country that qualifies for the World Cup is the biggest promotion of the sport you can have." REUTERS

WAL-MART PLANS JOB CUTS THIS MONTH

4Wal-Mart Stores Inc. plans to cut hundreds of jobs before the end of January, the Wall Street Journal reported, citing people familiar with the situation. The Bentonville, Arkansas-based retailer plans to eliminate jobs at its headquarters and regional personnel that support stores, according to the report. Many of the eliminations will affect Wal-Mart's human resources department, a large team that some senior executives believe should be more efficient or whose duties could be handled by outside consultants, the newspaper reported. Other departments could be affected as well, the report said. "While we continually look at our corporate structure, we have not made any announcements," Wal-Mart spokesman Randy Hargrove said in an email. REUTERS

Boston musician hopes to share her cancer experience via song

Part of the proceeds from Lauren Flaherty's new album will go to the American Cancer Society.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
@kristindakota
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

Lauren Flaherty knows that she was lucky. Her cancer diagnosis was unexpected, and obviously difficult, but things moved fast.

"My experience was accelerated; within 31 days I went from diagnosis to surgery," she said. "But when I was in recovery, which mentally is almost harder in some ways, I was wondering if I was ever going to be able to sing again."

Flaherty can sing again, thanks to the staff at Massachusetts General Hospital and former teachers and vocal coaches at the New England Conservatory, where she got her master's degree.

Now, Flaherty is working on a way to give back while also chronicling her experience through an album she's funding through Indiegogo.

Flaherty, a singer-songwriter born and bred in Boston, was diagnosed with thyroid cancer in March 2016. The thyroid gland overlaps with vocal cords, so when Flaherty had her surgery, she knew her vocal cords could be affected.

"This is the exact surgery as a singer you do not want to have," Flaherty said.

She credits, in part, the experienced staff at MGH — one of whom consulted Grammy-award-winning star Adele — with everything turning out OK.

"I really feel like Boston helped me get better, like the level of surgeon and doctors I had access to at MGH was astounding ... my voice coach dropped everything to meet with me," she said. "I don't feel like I did this on my own, my community helped me very much."

PROVIDED BY LAUREN FLAHERTY

"My experience was accelerated; within 31 days I went from diagnosis to surgery,"

Lauren Flaherty

The Boston community is helping her once again by donating to her Indiegogo campaign, which she launched in early December. She kept her goal safe, she admitted, at $1,000, but was still blown away when she surpassed it after the first week.

"It made me feel that hopefully the work itself is resonating with people," Flaherty said. "Part of the cause, the experiences with cancer that have fueled the record, are tapping into something."

With about a month left in the online campaign, Flaherty is planning how to cover her costs of recording (which is taken care of with the amount raised so far) and to donate any money left over, along with a portion of the proceeds, to the American Cancer Society.

The album will have 15 songs, organized in three parts—"Life, Death and Rebirth"—which follow her experiences before her diagnosis, during her battle with cancer and then through recovery.

While a lot of songwriting is personal, Flaherty said musicians like herself most often try to make their work universal with general experiences, like a breakup. Flaherty knew she was going through something larger than that, but also knew that, unfortunately, cancer is something more and more people have experienced.

"I really wanted to push myself," she said. "If someone is going through a hard time, they can put this album on and feel something—hopefully, comfort and inspiration."

Lawmakers consider reducing homegrown marijuana allowance

Senate president calls marijuana plant allowances "very large."

ERIN TIERNAN
@erintiernan
erintiernan@metro.us

The cap on the number of pot plants adults are allowed to grow could be on the chopping block as Massachusetts legislators prepare to vet the state's new marijuana laws.

In an interview on Merrimack Valley's WCAP radio Tuesday, Senate President Stanley Rosenberg said lawmakers would consider reducing the current home-growing limit of six marijuana plants per adult and maximum of 12 per household.

"According to the people who know a lot more about this than I do, they say that for someone who knows how to truly grow these plants and once you master it — which is not all that hard — 12 plants would produce about 30 marijuana cigarettes a day."

"It's a very large quantity to have in your home at any given time," Rosenberg added.

Asked to clarify whether the Senate president supports a reduction in the number of plants that can be legally grown, a spokesman for Rosenberg told State House News Service that the Senate leader is "still doing his homework and will await the recommendation of the Marijuana Committee."

Calls to Rosenberg's office were not immediately returned Tuesday.

While on the air, Rosenberg said "advocates understand that this [allowance] is likely to be debated in the process."

But pro-legalization activists said otherwise.

"We vehemently disagree with any attempt to further limit the home-grower allowances," said Jim Borghesani, spokesman for the Yes on 4 campaign, the organization that lobbied for the passage of recreational marijuana laws last year.

Massachusetts' limits are in line with eight other states plus Washington, D.C. that have legalized pot, Borghesani said, calling Rosenberg's yield estimates "ridiculous."

"The fact is, there

Senate President Stanley Rosenberg said lawmakers could make cuts to the number of marijuana plants, such as this one, allowed in homes. GETTY IMAGES are going to be very few home growers. It will be a niche market just as it is now," he said, noting plant allowances were modeled after state law allowances for home-brewed beer and wine.

Since legal marijuana became the law of the land in Massachusetts on Dec. 15, the state legislature has pushed back the opening of retail dispensaries for recreational users by six months, citing a need for more time to set up regulations.

The House and Senate are creating a joint committee on marijuana to weed through the law approved by voters in the Nov. 8 election. That committee has also set its sights on upping the tax on retail sales.

While Borghesani said he wished legislators would stay out of it, he chalked the pushback up to a fear of change.

"We saw prohibition hysteria and now legalization hysteria. Ultimately, I think people will realize the problems are fairly minimal and that they're not going to see much of a change in larger society," he said.

New Cream Works for Men in a Way Sex Pills Can't!

New invention triples sensation and gives overwhelming pleasure to those who use it.

You may have a different problem than you think.

Specialist, Dr. James L. Yeager's invention helps men suffering from RPS. Now you can double, even triple your penile feeling and sensation. The result? MIND-BLOWING SEXUAL SENSATION!

Steven Wuzubia
Health Correspondent

Clearwater, Florida - Think about it. No matter what drugs you take; If you don't have enough "feeling" in your penis, it's impossible to get an erection. The formula for great sex is simple. The more penile feeling, the more aroused you get, which provokes a firm and lasting erection and a full orgasm whenever you want.

For years, men begged Dr. Yeager for a solution that would work to end lack of penile sensitivity. But now, his new cream promises to give you what no other pill can... incredible sensation, even from the slightest touch. It's fixing erection problems a whole new way.

The new cream makes penile sensitivity double, even triple. So even those that have little to no feeling at all in the penis suddenly experience mind blowing sex again! "Even men without E.D. problems are buying up more than we can produce", says Dr. Yeager.

"Many men do not feel comfortable telling even their doctor about trouble with erections, and a lack of feeling and pleasure during intercourse."

"They are too ashamed that they can't 'make it work' in bed. And if this is your problem, you're not alone."

These men suffer from Reduced Penile Sensitivity (RPS). This can cause loss of confidence, frustration, even depression and anxiety.

Let's face it. The inability or long wait to reach orgasm is bad enough. But failure to achieve a firm erection is devastating! It's one of the leading causes of relationship problems. And avoiding sex often leads to a failed marriage. It is a horrible problem.

Dr. Yeager wasn't about to ignore the suffering of his patients. He wanted to make a mark and decided to do something about it.

He spent long sleepless nights locked up in his lab ... researching every study he could get his hands on regarding penis sensitivity and came up with a cream that changed sexual medicine as we know it.

He put special natural ingredients into a cream for men and the results have been remarkable. Men who use this cream report much more penile feeling, arousal, sensitivity and pleasure from their sexual intercourse.

They have less or no more difficulty in stimulating the penis, getting and keeping a hard erection, and achieving orgasm at the right time.

ED pills like Viagra, Cialis and natural pills work for many men, but men with RPS end up taking more than directed in the hope of increasing their penile sensitivity, and even then they often don't work good enough.

WHY YOU NEED IT

Reduced Penile Sensitivity (RPS) is commonly associated with aging, diabetes, circumcision, certain surgeries and prescription drugs.

RPS is estimated to strike over 500 million men on a worldwide basis. Dr. Yeager states "It's not a man's fault. They did nothing wrong. They are not any less of a man. And now, men don't have to suffer any longer."

HOW IT WORKS

The name of the cream Dr. Yeager invented is SENSUM+*. Men rub the cream on their penis twice daily for the first two weeks then once a day for eight additional weeks. There is a nice cinnamon smell and no residues.

The main ingredient, natural Cinnamaldehyde, activates the TRPA1 receptor (IC50 = 9.5µM). This increases the reaction of sensory neurons to stimulus such as warmth, cold and touch.

This activation results in more sensitivity of the penis and a pleasurable sensation.

The nutrients in this cream help you get and keep a hard erection very easy, and also to climax when you want to.

For example, Joe Romas, 52, from Oakland, was not feeling any penile sensation during sex and it took too long to ejaculate because of this. And the lack of feeling made sex unpleasurable.

Within one week after he started applying SENSUM+* cream, he reported, "I now have my old feeling and pleasure back. Sex is fun again and feels great. My wife and I are much happier now."

"A REAL MARRIAGE-CHANGER!"

"This has caused our sex life to be like we are teenagers again! My wife and I are both much happier and more satisfied. A real life-changer! I am so glad for Dr. Yeager's invention to fix this problem with no dangerous prescription drugs."

- Robert H., West Palm Beach, FL

"I have full feeling and sensitivity back in my penis. This cream has been a Godsend for me," raves Otto Garangton of Seattle.

SENSITIVITY AND SATISFACTION DOUBLED, TRIPLED

Clinical studies prove SENSUM+* ends these common male sexual problems fast and effectively. The result of two clinical studies on men, both circumcised and not, show SENSUM+* more than doubled penis sensitivity and more than tripled sexual satisfaction. (By the way, their partner's sexual satisfaction also tripled.)

SENSUM+* is patent-pending. The product is discretely shipped in a plain unmarked package so privacy and confidentiality is assured. It is for both circumcised and non-circumcised men. No side effects or medicine interactions have been reported.

Readers can now join thousands of other men who have ended their sexual issues and enjoy their sex life again like back when they were much younger. "It's almost like a miracle for men who want to improve their penis feeling and performance in bed" says Dr. Yeager.

The sooner you start using this cream, the sooner you can have more feeling in your penis again to get and keep a hard erection and enjoy sex more than ever.

SENSUM+* is NOT sold in stores. No prescription or doctor visit is required.

HOW TO GET SENSUM+* IN Massachusetts

This is the first official public release of SENSUM+* in Massachusetts. In order to get the word out about SENSUM+*, the manufacturer, Innovus Pharmaceuticals is offering special introductory discounts to all Massachusetts residents.

A special phone hotline has been set up to take advantage of deep discounts during this ordering opportunity. Special discounts will be available starting today at 7:00am. The discounts will automatically be applied to all Massachusetts callers. The Special TOLL-FREE Hotline number is 1-800-762-1067 and will be open 24-hours a day.

Kim Kardashian robbery was likely an inside job

New evidence is in, and it suggests that Kim Kardashian's traumatic Paris heist was an inside job. On Monday, 17 suspects were arrested in connection with the robbery, including a limo driver who was the last person to have chauffeured Kardashian on the night of the incident.

According to People, French police believe he may have supplied the robbers with information on the reality star's whereabouts. The suspects include a 72-year-old man identified as "Pierre B," who is said to have organized the robbery, according to French police reports.

Kardashian, who is reportedly very happy with the progress of the investigation, celebrated the news with a night out at Shu Sushi with husband Kanye West in tow. The recently reclusive pair looked more like themselves than ever, with Kardashian dressed down in deconstructed lacy denim, and Kanye wearing a cozy, luxurious sweatsuit. We're guessing much like time, sushi heals all wounds.

Everyone's favorite Olympic gymnasts, Aly Raisman and Simone Biles, are trading in their leotards for bikinis as part of SI's 2017 Swimsuit issue. And guess what: They look stunning.

"Aly and Simone represent all that is beautiful and strong and inspiring in women today," says SI Swimsuit Editor MJ Day. "These women, their beauty and what they can achieve, know no

Chris Brown and Soulja Boy are taking their beef to Dubai

Another day, another drawn out Twitter & Instagram beef between two celebrities that should know better. Soulja Boy finally got what he wanted—Chris Brown is ready to meet him in the boxing ring. And what's more, the two are allegedly taking it all the way to Dubai.

That's right. In a bid to fill their pockets and, I don't know, wring the most attention out of this absurd turn of events, the two petulant man-children are planning a fight overseas. TMZ reports they genuinely want to punch the crap out of each other because they genuinely don't like each other. You guys! Duke it out or shut up. Or, like, fade into obscurity. Whatever works.

Chris Brown is being trained by Mike Tyson while Soulja Boy is being trained by Floyd Mayweather, and all four of these grown men sure have a lot of time on their hands.

Are Brad Pitt and Kate Hudson dating?

Brad Pitt is slowly but surely making his way back into the spotlight. The actor — looking really, really good, frankly — made a rare appearance at the Golden Globes on Sunday, to lots of cheers and applause from his fellow A-listers. But that's not all.

The powerhouse formerly known as Brangelina released a joint statement late Monday evening promising to keep the details of their divorce on the hush and out of the public eye. According to an exclusive statement obtained by People, Pitt and Angelina Jolie are "committed to act as a united front to effectuate recovery and reunification," which sounds like a fancy way to remind us all to mind our business while they put their family first.

Meanwhile, the very handsome actor (seriously, he looked so good) has been rumored to be hooking up with actress Kate Hudson. Between producing award winning movies and getting divorced in front of the whole world, where does he find the time?

Kourtney Kardashian threw her sons a 'Fast and the Furious' party

Kourtney Kardashian had an epic "Fast and the Furious"-themed birthday party for sons Mason and Reign, and it has us feeling some kind of way.

Seven-year-old Mason, a child wise beyond his years, requested the theme and probably all of the badassery that came along with

it. This party had everything—a huge monster-truck-shape bouncy slide, a race-track game, one of the actual cars from the movie, a screening of the original film and an appearance from Mama Kris herself.

The only question is—are we too old to copy this idea for our birthday?

The quirky sketch comedy series follows the lovable yet eccentric characters who "keep Portland weird," with Fred Armisen and Carrie Brownstein playing most of them. From the feminist-bookstore owners to the gothic oddballs to ultra-bohemian couples, "Portlandia" is a patchwork of relatability and quality laughs. We got to chat with one of its creators and stars, Fred Armisen, about hunks taking over, why Trump isn't touched on this season and the possibility of a "Portlandia" album.

How does it feel to be in Season 7?

It's the best. I love doing "Portlandia." I can't believe my luck. To be going this long — I think of it as my new job still. I'm very fortunate.

Ever since the "Song for Portland" episode, I keep wondering if you guys will ever do a "Portlandia" album, with you and Carrie and all of the guest stars. Any chance of that ever happening? That's a really great idea. My answer is yes. I think that would be really cool. Ideas like that are so good. It's actually getting it together that takes a bit of work. But I think it would be worth it.

A lot of comedy shows are being pretty direct about their disapproval of Donald Trump right now. However, in the episodes I've seen so far in this season, it's a subject you don't touch on. Any reason for that? We don't have the luxury of being a nightly or weekly TV show. We shoot in the summer. We started writing last year in May. Because it takes so long, we can't afford to get specific. With ours, we need to keep it vague.

The "What About Men?" sketch really made me think of Trump supporters — white men out there who feel like their voices aren't being heard. But then there's the hunks bit. You really think hunks are taking over in our culture?

They already took over! [Laughs] There was a time when hunks were dum-dums, and now they have a sense of humor. They're smart, they're comedians, they do it all and they're so accepted now. They're taking the thunder away from the nerds, and nerds are jealous of that.

What can nerds do?

We need a "What About Nerds?" sketch. They're disappearing. They became so difficult that now they don't get to be heard at all. There are so many subgenres [like gaming] and they're disappearing into them.

You've played so many characters on this show. Do you have a favorite? I always relate to the weirdo goth characters. I don't know why. I love doing them. I wish I could do a whole show with just them.

What do you do when you're not working on "Portlandia?"

Working on other shows. I never have a day off — ever. I just keep going.

Do you have any advice for people out there getting their start in comedy?

My advice is to always surround yourself with people who make you laugh and most likely you're making them laugh too. Because then your whole experience all the way through is a fun experience so at least you're enjoying all of that time.

The next new episode of "Portlandia" airs this Thursday, Jan. 12 at 10 p.m. on IFC.

Elle Fanning goes back in time (twice)

The actress talks doing history in both "Live by Night" and "20th Century Women."

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

Elle Fanning heads into the past twice this winter. In Ben Affleck's gangster movie, "Live by Night," she heads to the 1920s to play a young Florida woman whose trip to Hollywood leads to a heroin addiction, not fame; once home, she finally makes her name as a popular evangelist. In "20th Century Women," from "Beginners" director Mike Mills, the actress jumps back to 1979, playing a less impressionable character who simply shacks up in a Santa Barbara house with a group of strong-willed women (including Annette Bening and Greta Gerwig), plus some progressive dudes (Billy Crudup and Lucas Jade Zumann).

Fanning, 18, talks about her fear of public speaking, learning about history

Elle Fanning plays an aspiring actress-turned-evangelist in Ben Affleck's 1920s-set gangster movie "Live by Night," which opens on Jan. 13.
WARNER BROS. PICTURES

On '20th Century Women'

I did want to ask about "20th Century Women," since it's also a period piece. It's set in 1979, which is for one thing a really cool time for music: punk, new wave, etc. We had dance parties before we did the table reads. We all got assigned a song. My song was "Rhiannon" by Fleetwood Mac. Julie [her character] wasn't so into the punk scene, so she wouldn't listen to the songs Abby [played by Greta Gerwig] would. But I do remember on set Mike Mills would play songs on his phone in between setups. He has such great taste in everything.

He's also the rare male director who really seems to get women. He's such a sensitive guy. He just understands people so well. That's why his characters are three-dimensional. He understands that women aren't just one way or this way. They're very complex. [Laughs] I think he captured that at all different ages and stages in life.

and which song Mills "assigned" her for "20th Century Women."

Both here and in "20th Century Women" you got to do deep dives in the past. What kinds of things did you learn about the 1920s?

It was a great time for women, in a way. The corsets came off and they cut their hair and they became a little rebellious. The Roaring '20s seemed like a fun time. Ben was very authentic about recreating it. The underwear, the socks — everything was from the 1920s. They were delicate and musky-smelling. Even the makeup was period. You really felt like you were in that period. Films aren't made like this anymore, so beautiful and epic feeling. This felt like an old Hollywood movie.

You're also playing a very popular evangelist here, who commands huge crowds. I had this scene where I had to do a sermon on a stage. That felt like theater to me. It was three pages of dialogue, and I was scared out of my mind. [Laughs] It was just me up there in front of a bunch of extras in a tent. It felt like I was really performing.

Are you generally afraid of public speaking? I am. I get butterflies before and this adrenaline rush. But normally I'm like, "OK, Elle, you just have to suck it up and do it!" Somehow I just don't think about it because I'm out there and I just have to go for it. But I get nervous.

Do you think you could one day do theater? Some actors, like Amanda Seyfried, have said they're scared of live performances, although even she did an off-Broadway show a while back. I would love to. I really would. I'd like to try everything.

Ski deals to take advantage of this season

The Downhill Report

ERIC WILBUR
@GlobeEricWilbur

My birthday lands in January, which meant for years it was a date I would trek to Wildcat Mountain, in Pinkham Notch, New Hampshire, where they used to hand out free lift tickets to skiers and riders on their birthdays. Alas, that practice ended some years back when Peak Resorts purchased the mountain, leaving my on-the-house, birthday morning view of Mount Washington as a once-cherished perk.

So, imagine my delight upon discovering that Gunstock Mountain Resort in Gilford, New Hampshire, now offers the same deal, meaning I can still look forward to a free day on the slopes this weekend, in addition to knocking off one of my skiing resolutions (ski someplace new this season) off the list.

So, happy birthday to ... um, me.

You too, that is if you're lucky enough to have a winter birthday. If not, here are four other ways you can find savings on lift tickets this month:

In celebration of its 50th birthday this winter, Vermont's Bolton Valley Resort is offering lift tickets for $19.66 on Mondays this season (not valid on Jan. 16 or Feb. 20). Also on Mondays, anyone with a lift ticket or season pass will also receive 50 percent off of a select menu in the base area's James Moore Tavern, and 50 percent off rental equipment for the day. A similar deal for $19.66 is also good Tuesdays through Saturdays (nonholiday) beginning at 4 p.m. through the night skiing period, which runs until 10 p.m.

Cannon Mountain has had a great start to the 2016-17 ski season. The ski area also gives skiers and riders two chances to utilize one of the better deals in the Northeast with two-for-$75 skiing every nonholiday Tuesday and Thursday. If you happen to arrive at the mountain alone, it's still only $49.

Mad River Glen will celebrate its own anniversary on Jan. 31, when the ski area will roll back the clock and offer lift tickets at the price they were way back in 1948. That would happen to be a mere $3.50.

You can still stuff a carload full of people and try to pay one price at the drive-in theater in Wellfleet (where else, really?), but you can also attempt to do the same at Magic Mountain in Londonderry, Vermont, on Fridays, when a carpool will run a total of $99 (maximum of five people per car). On Thursdays, throwback prices are in style (unless it turns out to be a 6-inch or greater powder day), and lift tickets will be only $25, the same cost they were way back in 1967.

Cleaning hacks for the home

in the dryer."

Here's to a clean slate — and a cleaner living space — in 2017.

"20/10s"

Set a timer and clean for 20 minutes, followed by a 10 minute break. Repeat as needed. "It's a way to break down any household project into more manageable chunks of time," explains Hoffman. "Taking that break is really important to keep you from looking at something as a giant, overwhelming task that you have to marathon through."

Set mini-challenges

For when your house is a total mess and you don't even know where to start, set a timer for five or 10 minutes and home in on one specific task — clearing off your desk, collecting dirty dishes and putting them in the sink or the dishwasher. "Then you look around and say, 'Wow, that didn't take any time at all. Now I can check one thing off the list,'" she says.

Take before-and-after pics

When you're in the middle of a home-improvement project, you can't always see the progress you're making. Comparing before-and-after pics will prove to you what you've actually accomplished — and serve as a reminder later. "You did it once, you can certainly do it again," she says.

Make your bed

No one likes being told to make their bed. Yet, the small task, which takes maybe one or two minutes, is an easy first step to a tidier room. Forget hospital corners, says Hoffman; just pull the blankets up, smooth it out and you're done. "A made bed can be a big spot of calm in an otherwise disastrous room," she says. Plus, who doesn't love the feeling of getting into a made bed at the end of a long day?

The author of "Unf— Your Habitat" shows you how to manage the mess in 2017.

KATE MOONEY
@yatinbrooklyn
katemooney@metrowest.com

Rachel Hoffman wants to help you get your home in order for the new year.

"One of the problems with housekeeping in general is that people just get so overwhelmed," she says.

Her new book, "Unf— your Habitat: You're Better Than Your Mess" offers a manageable system for tidying where you live. And it's not Marie Kondo 2.0.

"Paring down is great, but if you're constantly on a quest to get rid of everything, you're never going to be satisfied with what you have," says Hoffman. "I like to look at the whole picture of how to live in your home comfortably and happily and maintain that on a regular basis."

Five years ago, the Rhode Island resident started the blog Unf— Your Habitat — also available as an app — to help both herself and her friends get a better handle on their living space.

"Everybody has that moment of, 'I have to do X,Y,Z, but I don't feel like it,'" says the 38-year-old. "So I started pestering people to do that thing — get off the computer for 10 minutes and throw that load of laundry

FLIRTING WITH A COMEBACK

"Retired" Red Sox slugger David Ortiz loves drama, so you just knew that "Big Papi" would be teasing a return to the playing field every other week this off-season. When the Red Sox acquired Chris Sale in a trade with the White Sox a month ago, Ortiz took to Instagram and posted a photo of Sale with the caption, "My god, my boy Sale to Btown? You guys got me thinking."

Monday night he tweeted out something cryptic, simply writing, "@BostonGlobe." Was that some sort of bat signal to Sox and Globe owner John Henry that he's coming back to the Red Sox? Or does he want in on this here journalism game?

Here's a hunch, Papi: You wouldn't be happy with a journalist's salary.

Dumbbells and whistles

There's a new star at the football referee gun show, and his name is Mike Defee. NFL ref Ed Hochuli gained a great deal of notoriety last decade for showcasing his biceps during games but it seems as though Ed has cut back on the HGH in recent years. Defee took the biceps baton and curled it 48 times Monday night during the Clemson-Alabama national championship game, as his 30-inch pythons were glistening in HD. Defee had a southern drawl to boot, which basically makes him the perfect college football official.

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

FARTIN' PHIL

Making fun of the nonsensical stuff that Phil Simms says on national NFL broadcasts has become a sport of its own, so much so that there's an awesome Twitter feed called "Phil Simms Quotes." Here are some of the gems that Simms, CBS' No. 1 football analyst, trotted out Sunday during the Steelers-Dolphins game: "Adam Gase. Young. Look at him." "Sometimes there are good holdings. That might be one." "This pass caught them off guard! Well it didn't catch them off guard." "Believe me, I passed many 60-second concussion evaluations and I turned out fine." Simms also allegedly farted on air during the CBS broadcast Sunday. After YouTube review, I can say with a clear mind that there is no indisputable evidence that Simms did not poot.

NFL NICK?

Nick Saban is smart enough to know that the following perception is out there. He's the greatest college football coach in modern history, but he couldn't hack it when he coached in the pros. Will he try his hand at the pros again? First, you'll have to ask his agent.

"I didn't talk to one NFL team last year, they know who to call: Jimmy Sexton has been with me for a long time," Saban said two weeks ago of his trusted agent. "He calls me and says, 'Are you interested?' And I say no and that's it."

That's coach-speak for: "I'm listening."

A great spot for the 65-year-old Saban would be Denver, a ready-made playoff contender.
